MINING NOTES.

Garibaldi Gravel—Jos. Garibaldi, one of the owners of this famous gravel mine at Volcano, was in Jackson this week. He says the mine is idle at present, and probably will not resume operations until June. The top dirt has been stripped off the entire length of the pay channel, about 700 feet long and 12 feet wide. This was done by hydraulic process. It left an open cut about twenty feet deep, with sloping banks. The heavy rains of the past winter have so thoroughly soaked the banks, together with the water used in hydraulic, that it is deemed inadvisable to commence washing the gravel at present, on account of the likelihood of the banks caving on either side, necessitating the handling of so much waste material. Operations are therefore suspended until the walls have become more hardened. The auriferous gravel runs from two or three feet to twelve feet in thickness. It has been tested, and found to be very rich. It is estimated that the gravel will average twenty dollars per linear foot. At this rate the bed exposed for 700 feet will turn out $14,000. There is another claim, adjoining, which belongs to the same parties, and which is believed to contain equally as good ground, being a continuation of the same channel. The serious drawback is the expense of constructing and maintaining the dams and reservoirs to restrain the debris. These have to be constantly looked after, involving heavy cost.

Plymouth Rock.—Last Monday supervisor L. Burke exhibited a sample of quartz recently taken from the Plymouth Rock mine, about one mile north of Plymouth. The specimen was about the size of a walnut, and was fully one-half solid gold. The Prichard Bros. have been operating this property, on some leasing arrangement. Lately they ran upon a pocket, and in a short time took out a ten-pound lard can full of specimen ore like the sample shown. This sort of ore would run into many thousands of dollars per ton. We simply mention this find to show that high grade ore equal to anything found in the much vaunted fields of Nevada is not uncommon along the mother lode of Amador county. From the Kennedy depths over 3000 feet below the surface, and 2000 feet below the sea level, ore of equal richness is met with every day. If such finds were made in an entirely new field in the deserts of Nevada they would cause a stampede of thousands of adventurers and prospectors. But along the mother lode they excite little excitement, being merely incidents in the great work of developing the main belt, which have characterized the history of mining here from earliest times.

Wildman-Mahoney Mines Redeemed.

On Tuesday last the amount due on the foreclosure of liens on the Wildman-Mahoney mines was paid, thereby redeeming that property from all indebtedness, and paving the way to the reopening of the mines. The properties were sold about a year ago, to satisfy the judgment obtained in the superior court by the lienmen. The total amount of the judgment and costs at the time of the sale was $20,606.87. The owners W. Morphy, was allowed under the law one year within which to redeem. He has been endeavoring to raise the money necessary to recover the property. The redemption period would have expired last Tuesday. At the eleventh hour—Monday night—the necessary amount was wired by telegraph from Alabama. The sum paid to redeem was $23,079. Mr Morphy is therefore again in full possession of this property, which is one of the most promising prospects along the mother lode. There are others associated with him, and reports are current that efforts will be made to float a big corporation to work these mines. At any rate the tangles from a legal standpoint have been unraveled, and the people of Sutter Creek have strong hopes that some active work on the Wildman will be done before long.

The Lincoln mine, which was sold under foreclosure proceedings at the same time as the Wildman, was not included in the redemption. It was bought at the sheriff's sale by W. J. McGee, representing the lien men for $5046.82. The total at the expiration of the redemption period was over $7000, including taxes. This amount the owners, who are mostly residents of Scotland, declined to put up, so a deed was issued this week to W. J. McGee.

THE CHANGE IN THE HOSPITAL.

The board of supervisors—or rather the democratic majority—in accordance with the plan mapped out at their last meeting, pushed through their program to make a change in the management of the county hospital by turning the republican incumbent out, and placing a democrat in his place. In one particular the program slipped a cog. It was arranged if possible to have Fred Lemoine resign. He was informed quietly and unofficially that he had better hand in his resignation before the April meeting. Had he complied with this kindly intimation that his place was wanted for another, it would have smoothed the democratic path considerably. It would have lifted a burden from democratic shoulders, relieving them from the responsibility of ousting a tried and thoroughly efficient manager of the hospital. This is a very difficult position to fill. Few men combine in themselves all the essential qualifications of superintendent of a county hospital. But Mr Lemoine has demonstrated by an experience of five or six years that he possesses these qualities to an eminent degree, so that his administration has been commendable both from the viewpoint of the taxpayers and indigent inmates. So satisfactory has been his management, that the democratic members realized that to agitate his removal for party reasons—and no other reasons could be given—would be tantamount to playing with dynamite. But the democratic hunger for office was stronger than the popular voice to let well enough alone. Mr Lemoine refused to resign to accommodate the exigencies of Amador democracy. He was prepared to meet any complaints in regard to his management, if any were made, but he firmly declined to lift any responsibility from the democratic shoulders by a volunteer resignation.

This forced the democratic hand. Knowing full well that they would be butting up against public opinion, they concluded to do it anyhow, regardless of consequences. So supervisor Burke, just about the noon hour, moved the adoption of a resolution to the effect that the office of superintendent be declared vacant. This was carried by a vote of three to two, John Strohm siding with the lone republican, Grillo, in opposition. Then supervisor Bagley moved that D. Burke be appointed superintendent. From the minutes it would seem that no other candidate was nominated. Why the ousted republican incumbent, or some other representative of that party, was not placed in nomination we do not know. It seems to have been one of those lamentable oversights which have characterized the republican side of late years to the weakening of the party organization. If the republican superintendent had faithfully and honestly discharged the duties of his trust—and there is no difference of opinion on that point—he was entitled from every public and party consideration to receive the complimentary vote of his party. Such courtesies help to keep the party spirit in full strength, and should always be extended.

The change of superintendent was solely a partisan matter. Those who were instrumental in bringing about the result admit this. They don't know whether the change will be a decided backward step from the standpoint of the public welfare or not. There is no claim that it will be an improvement upon the outgoing management. The utmost they can hope for is that it will be as good. So that the chances taken for this small office from a democratic standpoint are desperate indeed. But the small cabal who assume dictatorial authority in local democratic ranks demanded this action, and the supervisors simply bowed in submission to the decree. The one thing that republicans should learn by this experience is to stand up for party under all circumstances. We do not blame democrats for securing for their party friends whatever patronage belongs to them as the controlling power. If they make changes for the worse they must take the consequences from an outraged community. But we trust from now on there will be no more of the weak-kneed, accommodating spirit, all "for the sake of good fellowship, you know," in keeping democrats in office, and putting adherents of that party on the republican ticket which has been in the past a fruitful source of sapping republican strength in local affairs. Let us take a leaf from the democratic scrap book, and stand shoulder to shoulder for our own people, and nominate only those who will agree to abide by this policy.

According to the papers, A. Caminetti has been selected as chairman of a press committee having in charge the floating of a straight-out democratic daily in San Francisco. Caminetti has struck the task of his life. The outcome will be watched with keen interest.

Object to Strong Medicines

Many people object to taking the strong medicines usually prescribed by physicians for rheumatism. There is no need of internal treatment in any case of muscular or chronic rheumatism, and more than nine out of every ten cases of the disease are of one or the other of these varieties. When there is no fever and little (if any) swelling, you may know that it is only necessary to apply Chamberlain's Liniment freely to get quick relief. Try it. ### His Wonderful Method.

"You haven't been married very long, have you?" said a guide at the state capitol to a young man who was signing "Mr. and Mrs." in the register for visitors at the desk at the entrance.

"How did you know?" demanded the young man.

"Oh, we get used to such people here and can tell them every time," was the response. "You haven't written that name with 'Mrs.' very long, have you? I believe I can tell how long you have been married from the signature," the guide continued.

"Well, we haven't been married very long, but I don't see how you can tell from the signature. How long has it been?"

"Well, let me see." The guide picked up the book and scanned the name closely.

"You have been married five days today," he said with an air of certainty.

"That's right, it's five days, but I don't see how you can tell."

The young wife had been sitting on the marble bench during the colloquy, and not until the couple went out of the building did she tell "hubby" that the guide had accosted her in the same way and that she had told when they had been married.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Bavarian Distances.

In the Bavarian highlands signposts along the roads, instead of stating the number of miles or kilometers to the various villages, give the amount of time which the average pedestrian will supposedly take to traverse the distance. This is merely an official expression of the very general custom of the peasants in the region, who invariably tell inquirers on the roads not how far it is to a place, but how long it takes to get there. Not only that, but they make the system still more unsatisfactory to the stranger by a little additional eccentricity of their own.

For instance, one asks, "How far is it to Oberammergau?"

"A small half hour," will be the answer, or perhaps "A good half hour" or "A big half hour."

Which is puzzling until the stranger learns that a "small half hour" means twenty-five minutes, "a good half hour" thirty minutes, "a big half hour" thirty-five minutes, "a small three-quarters of an hour" forty minutes, and so on.

An Economic Protest.

"Did I understand you to ask me if I wanted work?" asked Plodding Pete. "That's what you understood, if you understood anything," answered the woman with a cold, steely eye and a square jaw.

"You've got some wood that needs chopping, I suppose."

"I have."

"Lady, I'm surprised at you. Don't you know that de trees gather moisture gradually an' by slowly lettin' it into de ground keep up a steady water supply? Don't you know dat when you leave de hillsides naked an' bare de water comes down in a feshet, same as beer from a barrel wit' de head stove in? Don't you know dat future generations is goin' to miss de umbrageous protection overhead an' dat our grandchildren is liable to be at de mercy of a parasol trust? An' you want me to chop wood! Lady, I'm surprised at you!"—Washington Star.

His Saturday Night.

The pretty, broad faced, blue eyed woman was telling how it happened that her husband came home so late of a Saturday night.

"When he goes to get shaved for Sunday," she said, "he waits so long for the line that gets there before him that he goes to sleep in the chair while he is being shaved. Then the barber, who is a friend of his, lets him sleep as long as he likes after he has finished with him. But I don't see how he can fall asleep with a dangerous razor scraping all over his face. I couldn't. Could you?"

"It isn't the most plausible excuse I ever heard," said one to whom the question was put, "but it ought to pass on account of its originality."—New York Press.

Coloring an Abyssinian Bride.

Western brides have an easier time than their Abyssinian sisters. On the occasion of her marriage an Abyssinian bride has to change her skin. From ebony she has to become the color of cafe au lait. To accomplish this the expectant bride is shut up in a room for three months. She is covered with woolen stuff, with the exception of her head. Then they burn certain green and fragrant branches. The fumes which they produce destroy the original skin, and in its place comes the new skin, soft and clear as a baby's. The elders of the family feed the young woman with nutritive force-meat balls.

"So you don't believe in Santa Claus?"

"I didn't exactly say that," answered the little Boston girl. "But I don't approve of him. I understand that he calls after 6 o'clock and doesn't wear evening clothes."—Washington Star.

"That is a sharp young man your daughter is going with these days."

"Not so sharp as he thinks he is. He thinks he is going to stick me for a home and puncture my bank account, but he isn't."—Houston Post.

Amador County Descriptive Article

Amador county comprises an area of 548 square miles. It lies on the western slope of Sierra Nevada mountains, and embraces within its territory all the diversity of valley foothill, and high mountainous lands.

Climate.—The climate of the populous portions of the county is as genial and healthful as can be found anywhere in California. As climate is one of the most valuable assets of this favored state in attracting population, Amador stands second to no county in this regard. It should, and no doubt will in time, when its climatic advantages are more thoroughly understood and appreciated, become a health resort not only for those in less favored states, but for the residents of other parts of California. The temperature alone the central portion rarely falls below 30 degrees above zero in winter, and as rarely rises to 100 degrees in the summer. Snow seldom falls in the settled districts, and never remains on the ground for more than a few hours. Of course, in the high mountain regions of eastern Amador the snowfall is very heavy—which is characteristic of the entire Sierra Nevada range. The summer season is always accompanied with cool nights; permitting of sound, refreshing slumber. Fogs are rare, cyclones are unknown, thunderstorms are infrequent.

Gold Mining.—The county, although rich in other sources of wealth, comparatively untouched, is noted principally for her quartz mines. The deepest gold mines in America are located here. The Kennedy mine is now taking gold in liberal quantities from quartz extracted from a depth of over 3000 feet below the surface, with every indication that the pay-ore extends to a much greater depth. Since the discovery of gold, the county has contributed fully $100,000,000 to the world's supply of the precious metal. The mines are still yielding at the rate of about two million dollars annually. Nearly all of this wealth is produced by eight or ten mines operating on what is called the "mother lode," stretching clear across the county in a north-easterly direction a distance of twenty miles. The mines aggregate between 400 and 500 stamps, and furnish employment for over 1000 miners. This industry is still in its infancy. The unexplored territory, even along the main gold belt, is far in excess of the ground that has actually been worked or prospected. The county offers today one of the most inviting fields to be found anywhere in the world for the investment of capital in the fascinating business of gold mining, not alone along the mother lode, but also in the almost untouched mineralized country of the east belt, some ten or twelve miles from the main lode.

Besides gold, we have copper, deposits of pottery, coal, marble, slate, limestone, granite, and soapstone or talc—all undeveloped.

Agricultural Capabilities.—The agricultural possibilities equal, if not excel, the mineral riches. The valley lands will produce anything that can be grown in the most favored sections. In the foothill lands all kinds of deciduous fruits thrive: also all kinds of vegetable are raised where irrigation is practicable along the numerous water courses. Further up in the mountains, at an altitude of 2000 to 2500 feet, the soil is admirably adapted for apples and potatoes. A ready market for many times the quantity now raised of these commodities can be found in the various mining towns.

Grape culture and winemaking are becoming important industries, both the grapes and wine commanding a better price than the product of the lowland.

Land is cheap compared with other California lands. Improved farms may be secured for one-fourth the price current in some places. Unimproved lands can be had from $5 to $10 per acre. It does not require a fortune to buy a small ranch. There is room for a large addition to our agricultural population. Vast tracts now devoted to cattle ranges might be made the homes of hundreds of prosperous farmers.

Amador has a population of less than 12,000. Three fourths of this is concentrated in a strip of three miles above and below the mineral belt.

Jackson, the county seat, has about 2500 inhabitants, and is an incorporated city of the sixth class. Other towns are Sutter Creek, Amador City, Drytown, Plymouth, Volcano, Pine Grove and Oleta. Ione City is the metropolis of the valley section, a thriving town of 1000 inhabitants.

The community is law abiding. Educational facilities are excellent. A schoolhouse is within easy reach of nearly every family. There is one high school, located at Ione.

The assessment roll for 1907 is $5,800,793, and the tax rate for both state and county purposes $2 on the $100.

The Southern Pacific has a branch railroad running to Ione. From this point the Ione and Eastern railroad extends 14 miles further to the mining section.

The various religious denominations and fraternal organizations are well represented.

The power plant of the Standard Electric Co.—one of the largest in the world—is located four miles from Jackson.

The Cat and Dog of It.

[Copyrighted, 1907, by M. M. Cunningham.]

By all the laws and the prophets of precedent Kenworthy should have made a stormy exit at the height of the quarrel. In staying on when the final word had been said and grim silence had succeeded the heated accusations and counter accusations he was guilty of an anticlimax. But Kenworthy was no respecter of precedent, and at present it mattered not a rap to him whether he was guilty of an anticlimax or not. He only knew that he was utterly miserable and that the fine view he had of Alicia's back—turned to him with an obviousness not to be gainsaid—was in nowise encouraging.

He sat in the hammock, his face a study of contradicting emotions, gazing abstractedly afield and pulling the silky ears of Rajah, the brindled bull terrier that lolled beside him. Twice he essayed to speak, but each time as he raised his eyes and caught sight of that uncompromising back the words died on his lips.

At length he looked down at the dog. A whimsical smile curved his lips, and he looked grimly toward Alicia, who to all intents was interested in the distant landscape.

"Rajah, old boy," he said, addressing the dog, "it strikes me that women are getting very unfair these days. They accuse a chap of all sorts of things, and when he offers to explain they fly into a fine dudgeon and turn their backs on him. They give him the maximum sentence without a trial."

He glanced at the girl. She was quite unmoved. The landscape was apparently quite as absorbing as ever. The back was certainly no whit less uncompromising.

"I've been ill treated, old man," Kenworthy went on. "I wanted to explain it all to her, but she wouldn't listen."

At that moment a Persian kitten came stalking across the lawn, paused irresolutely beneath the trees and then jumped into Alicia's lap.

"Teddy, you dear," cried the girl, stroking the kitten's white coat, "you knew I wanted to tell you something about men, didn't you?"

Kenworthy pricked up his ears. "Teddy," she went on confidentially, "all men are horrid—selfish and horrid. You can't trust any of them."

Kenworthy smiled at the dog. "Between you and me, Rajah," said he, "I think the sum and substance of the whole matter is jealousy."

"Imagine my being jealous, Teddy," said the girl scornfully. "Who on earth would I be jealous of?"

"I imagine it's the Bronson girl, Rajah," said Kenworthy.

"The Bronson girl goes automobiling quite frequently of late," said the girl to the kitten. "And she's such a horrid little flirt! She boasted when she came here she'd have a spin in every car in town. I did think, Teddy—"

She stopped abruptly. "By Jove, it is jealousy!" said Kenworthy, forgetting to address his remarks to the dog.

"Didn't I tell you men were horrid, Teddy?" said Alicia, with much conviction.

Kenworthy chuckled softly. "Do you suppose she really cares if I did take the Bronson girl for a spin, Rajah?" he asked.

"He was to come here at 4 yesterday afternoon, Teddy," she said. "It was half past 5 before he came. I'm glad he found such congenial company."

"See here, Rajah," said Kenworthy, "the explanation she refused to listen to I shall tell to you."

"Aren't men clever at explaining, Teddy?" asked the girl, with sarcasm. "You see," Kenworthy went on, patting the dog, "I started out in the car to run over here yesterday afternoon. When I got to the old Bassett place there was Jim Culver lying flat on the ground beneath that runabout of his. I'm busted," says Jim to me, 'and Miss Bronson wants to get that 4:32 from the junction. Think you can get her over? You'll have to make a record.' What could a fellow do, Rajah, old chap? He couldn't be cad enough to refuse, now, could he?"

The girl stroked the kitten thoughtfully.

"It's a very clever explanation," she mused.

"The worst of it is, Rajah, she won't believe a word of it," said he gloomily. "I'm almost tempted to believe it, Teddy," said she.

"And if she does believe it she won't be sorry for the way she treated me," he went on.

"I'm almost tempted to be sorry," she said softly.

"And even if she is sorry she'll never care for me the way I've been trying for the past four years to have her care," he persisted.

The girl held the kitten at arms' length.

"Teddy," she said very softly, "I'm almost tempted to—"

She stopped, flushing deeply.

Kenworthy sprang from the hammock with a suddenness that precipitated Rajah to the ground.

"Alicia, Alicia," he cried, "I dare you to finish that sentence!"

The girl dropped the kitten. She turned to Kenworthy, and her eyes met his bravely.

"I dare you to finish that sentence," he repeated.

"I'm—I'm almost tempted—I am tempted and I do—that is—I yield to the temptation," she said slowly.

FISH AND GAME LAWS

The following article relative to our fish game and laws, taken from the San Francisco Chronicle, will be of interest to our local anglers.

The published announcement that trout fishing would not be lawful before May 1st and that steelhead trout could be taken in tide waters only on April 1st lead many anglers to believe that coast steam trout fishing—that is, above tide water—would not be allowed for another month. The amendment to the old trout fishing laws gives any person with rod and line a legal right to catch steelhead trout in and above tide water to the extent of fifty fish in any one day on April 1st of this year, regardless of any county ordinance to the contrary.

OPEN SEASON FOR GAME.

Deer—August 1st to November 1st. Bag limit two bucks in one season.

Wild duck, curlew, ibis, rail, black sea brant, plover and other shore birds—October 1st to February 15th. Bag limit, duck and sea brant 25, all other birds mentioned 20 in one day.

Doves—July 15th to October 15th. Bag limit 20.

Valley and "desert" quail—October 1st to February 1st. Bag limit 20 in one day. No sale during any season.

English or Wilson snipe—October 1st to March 31st. Bag limit 20 in one day.

Tree squirrel—September 1st to December 31st. Bag limit 12 in one season.

Wild geese—No limit, no season; aid of oen not allowed.

Mountain quail, grouse and sage hen protected during all months of the year.

OPEN FISH SEASONS.

Steelhead trout—In and above tide water April 1st to November 15th; in tide water only, April 1st to January 31st. Limit catch per day 50 fish. Limit size 5 inches, limit weight 50 pounds.

All varieties of trout excepting golden trout—May 1st to November 15th.

Golden trout—June 1st to September 1st. Limit 20 fish in one day.

Striped bass—Protected against netting only in May and June. Limit size for rod or net three pounds.

Black bass—Open season June 1st to January 1st. Limit 50 fish in one day.

Shrimp—Close season June 1st to August 31st.

Salmon—Above tide water, close season from September 17th to November 15th; in tide water, September 17th to October 23d.

Crab—Close season November 1st to March 1st. In Humboldt and Trinidad bays, to be taken on Thursdays only during open season.

WHAT'S UNLAWFUL.

To fish for trout or white fish from one hour after sunset to one hour before sunset. This measure was directed solely against poachers, who use all manner of devices for taking game fish at night. The sale of trout less than one pound in weight is also prohibited; neither can trout be shipped or carried outside of the State. This statute is intended to stop the market fishers of Nevada county who in former years almost depleted many of the fine lakes and rivers of Nevada and Sierra counties of their piscine treasures. The men who make a business of fishing for the market must in future take out a fishing license.

Unlawful to run deer with dogs, except to follow wounded deer in open season.

Unlawful to shoot game half an hour before sunrise or half an hour after sunset.

Unlawful to trap or hold protected game without having the permission of the Fish and Game Commissioners.

Unlawful to take, possess or destroy nests or eggs of any birds.

Unlawful to ship game or fish in concealed packages or without the sender's name and address.

Unlawful to buy or sell trout less than one pound in weight.

Unlawful to take or have in possession Sacramento river perch, female crabs or sturgeon under 25 pounds in weight.

Unlawful to take red abalones less than seventeen inches in circumference.

Unlawful to take green or black abalones at any time.

Unlawful to take shad or striped bass with a net less than five feet and a half inch mesh, or to use a set net to take the same.

To take fish within fifty feet of a fish-way.

Unlawful to extend a net or seine more than one third across the width of a river or slough.

To take or kill meadow larks, robins or any other non-game birds, except bluejays, English sparrows, sharp-shinned hawk, Cooper's hawk, duck hawk, great horned owl and California linnet.

To hunt or shoot upon inclosed or cultivated land, where signs are displayed, without permission.

To use any animal as a "blind" other than a dog to approach any wild duck or game fowl.

To shoot at any wild ducks from any boat propelled by steam, gasoline, or other power while such boat is in motion.

The latter provision will give the wild duck that visit the open bay for rest and safety during the shooting season immunity from the guns of hunters who pursue them in fast launches.

BIBLE STUDY CONTEST.

For Class Leaders, Pupils, Church Members and Others.

Suggestive Questions on the Sunday School

Lesson by Rev. Dr. Linscott for the International Newspaper Bible Study Club.

(Copyright, 1909, by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D. D.)

April 11th, 1909.

Easter Lesson. I Cor. xv:12-28.

Now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first fruits of them that slept. I Cor. xv:20.

Verses 12-13—Does the doctrine of the resurrection of the body, rest upon revelation or upon reason?

Providing the soul is immortal is it, or not, of material importance whether the body is raised or not?

If there is no resurrection of the dead, it follows as Paul here states, that Christ is not risen; but is the converse true, that if Christ is risen then all human beings will necessarily be resurrected.

It seems that some in Corinth denied the resurrection of the dead in the sense that there is no life after death, now if that were true, then how much would there be left of Christianity.

What is the process of reasoning that demonstrates the fact of immortality.

What is the scripture proof of life after death.

Can you mention a single nation or tribe of the past, or at the present, which has not believed in immortality is some shape.

Verses 14-17.—If there is no resurrection of the dead, how would that make their preaching vain, make our faith vain, and make them false witnesses.

Verses 18-19.—How is it that all men instinctively believe in the immortality of their departed friends, and expect to meet them again.

It was doubtless true in Paul's day that if there was no immortality Christians were all men most miserable, because, they were then despised, imprisoned and put to death; but is the same true to-day. Is not Christ's religion now a grand thing for this world, even if death did end all.

Verses 20.—What is the chief evidence of the truth of Christianity.

What is the proof that Jesus did rise from the dead? (See Matt. xxvi: 16-18; Mark xvi:14; Luke xxiv:36-38; John xx:4,5,14,26; xx:14; Acts i:3,13,30,31; I Cor. xv:3-8, et seq.)

Is the fact of the resurrection of Jesus to be proved by evidence, like any other fact, and is there any other historic fact better attested.

WHY was it, when Jesus was crucified that His disciples were a dispirited band, having lost heart, and going back to their former occupation, and what was it afterwards that put new life in them, and made them the most courageous men that ever lived. (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

What became the prominent theme of their preaching.

It is credible that such noble men, who afterward laid down their lives for the truth, would testify that they had seen and talked to Jesus after his death, if they had not so seen him.

Verses 21-22—Would there have been natural death if there had been no sin.

Would there have been any resurrection of the dead, if Jesus had not been resurrected.

Verses 23-28—Was Christ the first man to rise from the dead.

When will the general resurrection be.

Will Christ finally abolish death and destroy sin.

Has God put all forces of nature under the control of Jesus.

Lesson for Sunday, April 18, 1909.—The Conversion of Saul. Acts ix:1-30.

OUR DECEPTIVE EYES.

The eyes we brought with us at birth do not see a tithe of the beauties of nature. But with a microscope not much better than this, Leuwenhoek, in 1675, frightened the world by saying that more animals lived in the human mouth than there were people in Holland! With object glasses of higher power we are said to see things magnified 200, 500, 1000, or 2000 diameters, which only means that different objectives, as they are called, bring our eyes within one-fourth, or one-eighth, or one-twelfth, or one-fifteenth, or one-twenty-fifth of an inch of the object.

And what have these mechanical devices of ours for helping our eyes to see, not done for the human world? So important to all life is that living world about which our native eyes would never have given us the least information, that it is evident no physical instrument can suffice for man, because he is so much greater than anything physical. All eyes made of protoplasm, including the eyes of the antipod apes, belong only to low origins and levels; but this human-fashioned mineral microscope belongs to the Andean heights of mind.

However, we have still other reasons for dissatisfaction with our eyes, writes Dr. William Hanna Thompson in Everybody's. They see the star Capella as no larger than a bright jewel in a lady's necklace, though we know that because that star has no proper motion, as astronomers say, and yet shines so splendidly, in reality it must be at least a hundred thousand times brighter than our own sun. But our poor eye can now answer. You know that I do not report the whole truth to you about anything. You should not trust me so, because, owing to radical defects in my make-up, I tell you that a man 6 feet high is only 6 inches high when he is a mile off. And as to the stars, you have had to make a telescope to help me out; but even with it the fixed stars remain beyond me, for I then see them merely as shining points. It is not by me, but by that greater power than mine in you, your reason, that you learn not only how large Capella is, but also, through another of your contrivances, that Capella abounds in earthly materials.

DON'T EXPERIMENT.

You Will Make No Mistake If You Follow This Jackson Citizen's Advice.

Never neglect your kidneys. If you have pain in the back, urinary disorders, dizziness and nervousness, it's time to act and no time to experiment. These are all symptoms of kidney trouble, and you should seek a remedy which is known to cure the kidneys.

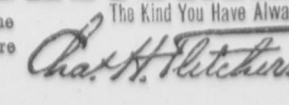

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use. No need to experiment. It has cured many stubborn cases in Jackson. Follow the advice of a Jackson citizen and be cured yourself.

Ben. Gilbert, miner, of Jackson, Cal., says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they proved of great benefit to me. I suffered from backache for a long time and the trouble gradually grew worse in spite of the different remedies I tried. I got so bad that I could not do my work and at night was so tired and played out that I was unable to sleep. A friend finally advised me to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial and I procured a box at the City Pharmacy. I felt their good effect immediately and I continued taking them until I was cured. Whenever I feel any symptom of kidney complaint returning, I use Doan's Kidney Pills and they give satisfactory results."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Correspondence.

Similarity of name has frequently led persons into confounding different companies. There is an Amador Gold Mining and Milling Co., which is favorably known about Jackson, operating at Defender, and there is an Arizona corporation called the Amador Gold Mining Co., capitalized for $2,000,000, which is advertising to be operating the Bay State and Rhetta mines on the Mother Lode above Plymouth, where they say their ten stamp mill is turning out about $30,000 worth of ore per month and promise a monthly dividend. Amador people will draw their own conclusions regarding the Arizona corporation and wonderful product of this "ten stamp mill."

A Subscriber.

We have seen a copy of a circular that has been circulated in the east, far away from the field of operations, concerning this mining venture. The Bay State, otherwise called the Rhetta, is well known throughout Amador county, especially around Plymouth, the property being located about four miles north of that town, along the trend of the main mineral belt. While the operations so far have not come up to the expectations of those who have ventured their capital in exploitation, there is no reason why it should not eventually prove a paying property. It is a legitimate field for investment. But we hasten to protest against the grossly exaggerated claims of the boosting literature that is being sent out to beguile the unwary to dump their hard earnings in the stock of this concern, on false premises. Such literature is not being scattered in this county, where the claims set up would quickly be branded as creations of the imagination. Amador county is a good field for honest, legitimate mining, and investors in this business are sure to be greeted with a warm welcome. But that style of mining that seeks to pull dollars from the pockets of the public solely on faked claims of prospective dividends is not wanted here. It is detrimental to the mineral development of the county. For a ten stamp mill to turn out $30,000 monthly, would mean an average yield of between $30 and $40 per ton, an unprecedented average for this rich section of the mother lode. If such an output was in progress Amador county would be wild over the matter. But as it is nobody seems to be aware of this wonderful bonanza except the promoters in the east, who aim to work the pockets of the gullible rather than delve into the bowels of the earth in their quest for wealth.

Eat What

You want of the food you need
Kodol will digest it.

You need a sufficient amount of good wholesome food and more than this you need to fully digest it.

Else you can't gain strength, nor can you strengthen your stomach if it is weak.

You must eat in order to live and maintain strength.

You must not diet, because the body requires that you eat a sufficient amount of food regularly.

But this food must be digested, and it must be digested thoroughly.

When the stomach can't do it, you must take something that will help the stomach.

The proper way to do is to eat what you want, and let Kodol digest the food.

Nothing else can do this. When the stomach is weak it needs help; you must help it by giving it rest, and Kodol will do that.

The Dispatch of last week stirred up a hornet's nest by the publication of a silly homily on "pasties," a favorite dish of the Cornish people. It said the article was intended as a joke, but the joking business in newspaper work, especially in amateur hands, is like bumping into a red hot furnace. In this particular effusion the writer asserts that Cornishmen are not Englishmen, that they do not speak the English language, but have a language distinct from the mother tongue. It is also intimated that Missourians are not American, any more than Cornish are English; all of which profound bosh gave mortal offense to many who hail from that particular part of England bordering on the English channel. The talk concerning pasties was likewise a ground of offense. As a mark of merit or perhaps demerit the writer was the recipient of a medal in the shape of a miniature "pasty," neatly deposited in a tin box. It was no doubt made up and cooked in the most approved method of the culinary art. What became of the token of respect the Ledger knoweth not.

Wanted—A gentle, quiet working horse, must work double or single. Apply at the Ledger printing office, or Box 287, Jackson.

Fred Lemoine has rented a house on Court street belonging to Chris. Marella. The new superintendent came over Tuesday with his family and assumed the duties of his office. From the proceeding of the board it does not appear that a matron was appointed, it being left to the superintendent to select that official. Miss Burke, a daughter of D. Burke, we understand, has had experience in hospital work in Placerville.

The children of the Sunday school will give an Easter program at the Methodist church next Sunday evening, consisting of singing, exercises and recitations by the children. All are cordially invited.

The ladies' aid of the Methodist Episcopal church will have their annual fair at the Odd Fellow's banquet hall on June 18.

She was ailing at the time she left, and it seems her health has been failing ever since. She leaves nine children, six girls and three sons, all grown up. Her husband died many years ago in Jackson, and the remains were interred here. The funeral of Mrs. Devan took place in San Francisco, and was a private affair.

A marriage license was issued on the 5th authorizing the marriage of Joseph G. O'Brien aged 26, and Lizzie Nixon, aged 31, both of West Point.

Mrs. Anthony and Mrs. Greenhalgh will have charge of the ladies' exchange this week. It will be at Vela & Piccardo's store on Saturday afternoon. Call on them for cakes and other delicacies in their line.

Crowgey, also holding a responsible position at the same mine, is also suffering from an attack of grip, and confined to the house. Web. Smith, the superintendent, has been in San Francisco, so that the foreman, John Mitchell, has been sole authority as regard the underground works of the big mine.

School Trustee Elections.

Elections for school trustees were held in nearly all the districts throughout the county last Friday afternoon. In some districts there was more than ordinary interest taken in the outcome, on account of peculiar local conditions. The result in the respective districts, as far as heard from, is as follows:

Jackson.—One trustee had to be elected in place of George Kirkwood, whose term expired. He was a candidate for re-election. At the last moment C. C. Ginochio was trotted out in opposition, and there was a whole lot of work quite done in his behalf. One hundred and two votes were polled, of which Ginochio received 69, and Kirkwood 33. Different theories are given to account for this crushing defeat of the retiring trustee. Some assert it was due to the saloon vote, which went heavily against him on account of the action of the board of trustees, of which he is a member, in doubling the liquor license. Others say it was in a measure owing to a desire to break up the clique who have been running things; to sit down on the idea of two elective offices being held by one man; an unseemly thing anyway, whether the offices are remunerative or not. It is hoped the good work in this direction will continue, and everyone who tries to hold two offices by the suffrages of the voters will be ousted.

S. Voorsanger, financial representative of the Pacific Slope Security Company, was in Jackson yesterday. He is identified with an insurance company recently organized on this coast for the purpose of insuring against accidents, doctors' liability in professional work, etc. It will do strictly Pacific slope business, confining its risks to about ten Pacific Coast states and territories. It is claimed that these accident risks are the best paying insurance policies issued, that every company in that line has reaped a rich harvest for its stockholders.

There was a time in New York Ranch school district last Friday over the election of school trustees. There were two to be elected. Much feeling had been aroused in that little community on account of reports circulated in regard to the late teacher, Miss Tuffman. Whether the reports have any foundation or not of course we are not prepared to say. The teacher resigned her position some two weeks ago, and returned to her home in Los Angeles. She was a bright and efficient teacher. The affair divided the burg into two factions, which resulted in a prospective contest for control of the school board. The faction in favor of the out-going members upon mustering forces found they would likely be in a minority, and decided to make no issue. Wm. Hanley and H. C. Hamrick were elected. Miss McKenzie of Volcano has been appointed to teach for the balance of the term, which will expire in five or six weeks.

Funny Case of Disinterestedness.

At the meeting of the city trustees held last Thursday, W. G. Snyder, as counsel in behalf of the editor of the Ledger, appeared in relation to the awarding of the contract for city printing to W. M. Perry Jr., of the Dispatch. The opposition to the disposal of the contract is based on that provision of law which prohibits any city trustee from being an interested party, directly or indirectly, in any contract with the city. It is contended that W. M. Perry sen., being a trustee, and the proprietor of the Dispatch, the Dispatch office was thereby disqualified from entering into any printing contract, however much the delectable combination at the head of the city government might desire that outcome. Wm. M. Perry, at the request of the attorney, was sworn, and in response to questions propounded testified, that he was the owner of the Dispatch outfit and business; that the city printing, if done under the contract as awarded by the trustees, would be done with the material in the Dispatch, of which he was the owner; that he had leased the office and material to his son, in whose name the city contract had been taken; that he received rent for the use of the outfit; that he was also employed by his son, at a fixed salary; but that notwithstanding these facts, he did not consider himself interested in the contract; that he would not take work at the prices given if he had his way; that there was no profit in the contract anyway; he admitted that if the Dispatch office did not secure work he could not be paid either rent or salary. After relieving himself of these luminous and remarkably consistent remarks, which were drawn out reluctantly, he was permitted to depart from the inquisitorial ordeal. Snyder contended that the fact that he was an interested party was clearly established from the testimony given, and therefore the contract for printing was absolutely illegal and void. As the city attorney was not present, the board deferred definite action until the next regular meeting. Trustee Kirkwood was the only member of the board to relieve himself of an opinion, and said that inasmuch as Perry had said he was not interested, that self-serving declaration was sufficient for him. In other words the mere expression of opinion was the main thing with him, and not the array of facts.

From Our Exchanges.

A party of railroad contractors from Colfax visited Placerville Saturday night and remained over Sunday. In the party were Charles and F. L. Erickson, F. J. Solinsky and Henry E. Rooney of Oakland, and F. J. Solinsky Jr. of San Francisco. They went to Camino yesterday, their object being to purchase tunnel timbers to be used on the Southern Pacific cut-off now being built between Colfax and Truckee. F. A. Boole met them at the lumber town and made arrangements to supply their wants.—Nugget.

Last evening the lumber cruisers who have been taking stock of the standing timber of the El Dorado Lumber Company around Pino Grande, came into town, having completed their work. Nothing in the way of news could be obtained from any of them except that they found some of the finest timber they ever saw, and a great deal more of it than they had anticipated. They were also surprised that such favorable conditions exist for falling this timber and getting it into the sawmills.

This party of eight do nothing but ermine timber, and their headquarters is in Chicago.—Nugget.

"Cap" (Calvin) Zwinge recently had quite an experience at Jackson. It seems that some man wanted for assault committed at Angels, was supposed to have gone towards Jackson and instructions for his arrest accompanied by his description had been sent to the officers there. The description fitted "Cap" pretty well, who though young in years has inherited all the Zwinge length of limb and is a pretty husky lad. He drove one of O'Connell's teams over to Jackson one day last week, and being hungry, stepped into a restaurant for a meal. He was hardly seated however, before in marched the sheriff and a constable and placed him under arrest, as the man wanted. It took all of Cap's eloquence to persuade them that he was not the dangerous character wanted.—Prospect.

Louis Armand for many years employed by Mrs. Rollerei of Angels as foreman of the cattle business, received injuries last Sunday from the effects of which he died that night. He was riding after cattle on the Riddell ranch near Carson, where his horse took him against a tree striking it with great force. The deceased was well known in this county, especially among the cattlemen and was respected as a trusty and reliable man. He was about forty-six years of age and leaves relatives in Stockton. The funeral which took place Tuesday, is said to have been one of the largest and most impressive seen there for a long time. The deceased was very popular in that town and all turned out to show their respect. The favorite saddle horse of the dead man which was almost as well known as its rider, was led in the procession with its housings draped in mourning and all the pall bearers were mounted.—Prospect.

State Controller Nye has figured up the expenses of the recent legislature and finds that the same were about $20,000 less than those of the 1907 session. They were as follows: Per diem, etc., senators $41,628.80; pay of officers senate, $22,096; contingent expenses, senate, $36,200.80. Total, $99,925.60. Per diem, etc., assembly man, $83,042; pay of officers, assemblymen, $28,129; contingent expenses, assembly, $34,807.65. Total $145,975.65. Grand total, $245,951.25.

The authorities of the state are calling the attention of the hardware dealers of the state to the following passed by the last legislature: Every person engaged in the business of selling at retail pistols shall keep a register in which shall be entered the name, age, occupation and residence (if residing in a city then the street and number of such residence) of each and every purchaser of such pistols, together with the number or other mark of identification, if any, on such pistol, which said register shall be open to the inspection of all peace officers at all times. Every person violating any of the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall on conviction be fined a sum not to exceed fifty dollars, or in default of the payment of said fine shall be imprisoned in the county jail not to exceed one day for each two dollars of said fine. The foregoing has been in force since the date of its approval by the governor.

A Lazy Liver

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as a savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with overwork. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipated or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, dependent, frequent headaches, pain in the back, "small of back," gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, and your "risings" in throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or cure you more permanently than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to its use until you are vigorous and strong.

The "Discovery" is non-secret, non-alcoholic, is a glyceric extract of native medicinal roots with a full list of its ingredients printed on each bottle wrapper and attested under oath. Its ingredients are endorsed by the most eminent medical writers of the age and are recommended to cure the diseases for which it is advised.

Don't accept a substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret MEDICINE OF KNOWN COMPOSITION.

An Exchange of Heads.

A Story of the Future.

[Copyright, 1908, by American Press Association.]

It was fifty years ago, in 1908, that the first experiments in transplanting organs of the lower animals were made and made successfully. It was then announced by one vivisectionist that he had transplanted dogs' heads with preservation of cerebral and bulbar function.

During the decade that followed this discovery the technique involved in transplanting the head of one dog to the body of another was very much improved, and surgical scientists began to covet an opportunity to try the experiment upon men. But it was not until 1915 that Dr. Therapeutic Scalpel succeeded in obtaining the requisite human subjects. The courts that had sentenced two murderers to be executed consented that they should instead be decapitated by Dr. Scalpel with a view to an exchange of heads. The prisoners gladly consented because they would have a chance to live again, though under a swapped identity.

Patrick Flanagan and Gottlieb Shuman were the subjects. Dr. Scalpel before making the experiment spent three months in educating an eminent vivisectionist and four young physicians to assist him. Just before the heads were severed the last rights of the church were administered to the convicts, after which they were placed on operating tables side by side.

The period of occlusion (shutting off the circulation) was but twenty minutes. This brought it within the limit of time necessary to prevent coagulation. During this period each head was removed from the body, transplanted, the arteries, muscles and nerves saturated, the point of cutting of the spinal chord being especially carefully adjusted.

Suspended animation returned as soon as the anesthetic began to lose its effect, and within a few hours Dr. Scalpel began to feel that the experiment had been successful. But it was ten weeks before the patients were discharged.

Up to this time it had been supposed that the individuality of a person was solely in the brain. The case of Flanagan and Shuman demonstrated that, though this is partially correct, it is not entirely so. Flanagan on the day of his discharge headed straight for a saloon and shouted to the barkeeper, "Ye spalpeen, gimme"—he hesitated and instead of calling for a glass of whisky finished—"eln glass beer." Shuman, who followed him into the place, succeeded in correctly giving an order for whisky, but the barkeeper, being inattentive or thinking he said beer, handed him a glass of that beverage, whereupon he berated the Teuton. "What d'ye mane, ye heathen? Fon glass visky, I said, und a sweitzer case sandvich."

Here Flanagan—that is, Flanagan's body with Shuman's head on it—took a hand. Turning to Shuman's body with his own (Flanagan's) head, he growled:

"And it is the likes of ye's that's pokin' fun at the Irish race by mixin' wid it's illigant talk yer beastly Dutch sprekent? Gott in himmel! Vas y' mean?"

Shuman's Dutch body (Irish head) retorted:

"Mein friend, I kilt dat man mit a hammer. If you say another wort, ye murtherin' Irishman, O'll mash yer Dutch head wid dot beer glass!"

Flanagan's Irish body (Dutch head) looked at his companion's Hibernian features contemptuously.

"So y' killed him wid a hammer, did ye? I spoilt my man's skull wid a stick lacken a shillalah. Git out mit yourself!"

Reaching over the bar, he seized a stone pitcher, his enemy meanwhile raising a beer glass. Then the two drew apart, each polishing his weapon and glancing at the other.

Dr. Scalpel on discharging his patients (so to speak) had directed one of his assistants to follow them to watch their movements, notice their idiosyncrasies and report to him. At this juncture the shadower rushed into the doctor's vivisection room and excitedly informed him that the men were quarreling in a mixture of Hibernian and German and he feared they would do each other bodily harm. Dr. Scalpel, feeling that some of the reunited parts might not yet have sufficiently healed to warrant a scrimmage, seized his hat and rushed out with the informer to the saloon. He found the Irish body dancing around with the true motions of an angered Hibernian, its serious German face scowling, the lips occasionally muttering in the German language. The German body was standing stolidly in one place, its Irish face lighted with enmity, the lips pouring forth a torrent of abuse in its native parlance.

"Hi, you two! Stop this!" cried the doctor. "If you throw those weapons I'll not be responsible for the consequences. The severed parts haven't yet had time to strengthen."

He was too late. The stone pitcher and the beer mug exchanged positions, each striking a head. The Hibernian cranium rolled on the floor, the German head toppled and hung suspended by such muscles as had firmly knit.

Doctor Scalpel surveyed this finale of his work with disappointment. He had proved that the transplanting could be successfully accomplished in the case of human beings, but only a tithe of the effect upon the individuality had been determined. However, it had been demonstrated that the brain is not all of the individual. At any rate, it is influenced by the rest of the body, which is not only a mechanical contrivance, but a living thing.

Passing of Another Illusion.—Ants in the Geological Survey.—All in the Dose.—A Sanitary Distributing Can—Cracks in the Air.—Ant-Scala Electrification.—The Fluid Telescope Mirror.—Sawing with Paper.—Wing Push per Horse-Power.—A Kite-Flying Regulator.

The general belief that when one or more senses are lacking the others become more acute has been shown to be an error by M. Kung, director of the Institution for the Blind at Mulhouse, Germany. Comparison of the blind with pupils of the same age in the public schools gave quite surprising results. There was no difference between the seeing and the blind in perceiving the direction of sound, no material difference in the distance at which sounds could be heard, but the seeing had greater acuteness of smell, and a finer perception of touch as tested by the minimum distance at which two points could be distinguished as separate. The average blind, therefore, not only lack a sense, but have other senses less acute than the seeing. The necessities of the blind compel them to heed slight impressions of touch and other sensations that are usually neglected by others, and this may account—in part, at least,—for the mysterious way in which they avoid obstacles.

Localities in Wyoming abound in teeth and bones of fossil fish, crocodiles, lizards, etc., and paleontologists of the Geological Survey have lately discovered that these small fossils bones—not easily found when scattered in the soil—are quite numerous among the small stones that a certain species of ant has collected in great quantities in its nest-building. On sifting these stones the fossil-hunter separates out a good supply of fish-scales, jaws, vertebrae, etc., with very little trouble. An enterprising collector even transplanted some of the ants to an antless region some miles away, and the next year he was rewarded by finding that they had built hills, in each of which they had gathered 30 or 40 teeth, etc.

Two kinds of action on plants and animals have been shown by X-rays. The concentrated rays have a destructive or paralyzing effects, but in small and oft-repeated doses they stimulate the tissues to abnormal activity, and increased growth. The large doses have given rise to 11 cases of cancer in X ray workers in England.

A pneumatic milk can is a novel device to ensure that milk reaches the consumer in the condition that it leaves the dairy. The can is filled, compressed air previously sterilized is pumped into it, and the cover is locked. On opening a valve the milk is forced out as desired by the pressure of the confined air. Dust and insects cannot enter, and it is impossible to change or adulterate the contents of the can without breaking the lock and removing the cover.

Lightening is a huge electric spark following cracks in the atmosphere, in the interesting theory of Prof. A. W. Porter, an English physicist. It does not take the well-defined zigzag course in which it has been so often pictured, and its actual irregular path suggests that the air must be cracked by a blow of sufficient sharpness, like that from the powerful electrical discharge. Though cobbles wax, like the air, is an unlikely thing to crack, it splits easily under a sudden blow.

Boiler scale is prevented, in the process of T. A. Lart, an English experimenter, by simply passing through the working boiler the moderate current of any ordinary dry or wet electro-chemical primary battery. The current hastens the deposition of solids in mechanical suspension and the precipitation of those in chemical solution, and the resulting mud contains only loose particles of the lime, magnesia or other impurities from the water. Tests are suggested to determine the working value of this process.

The mercury telescope used last summer by Prof. R. W. Wood of Baltimore is a 20-inch basin of mercury that on being rotated by a motor becomes a concave mirror of variable focus. A disadvantage is that the mirror must be kept horizontal. When the irregularities of running have been overcome so as to give the necessary steadiness, it is hoped to have a mirror 10 or 20 feet in diameter constructed for some southern station, where it can be used for photographing details of the planets as they pass directly overhead.

The freight airships of Prof. Schuette of Danzig, Prussia, is to be 310 feet long and 50 in diameter, with a skeleton of wood, and a car 120 by 12½ feet. Two gas engines of 150 horse power each are expected to give a speed of 50 miles an hour, carrying a cargo of two tons or more, besides crew.

Centrifugal force is the active agent in some interesting phenomena, such as keeping a bicycle upright, causing a top to return to a certain position after being distributed, and giving to a soft iron disc the rotary tension that enables it to cut through heavy armor plate. A disc of cardboard revolved rapidly in a lathe behaves like sheet metal. A report of German experiments states that the cardboard can no longer be bent, and if struck with a hammer it emits a sound like that from bronze. Even paper acquires quite unusual properties. An 8 inch disc of good paper, perfectly circular, was placed on the shaft of an electric motor, and when rotated at the motor's highest speed it easily sawed through cigar-box wood. Centrifugal force may give many other curious effects. For example, a small chain may be fitted as a closed ring on a rotating drum in such a way that it can be slipped off when the drum reaches its highest speed, and the chain will then roll on a table like a solid ring and bounce up like a hoop on striking the ground.

Flapping wings have been tested in a small model by the Aeronautical Society of Great Britain. It was shown, R. F. Moore claims, that a horizontal thrust of 20 to 27 pounds can be obtained, a result far in excess of the 6 to 7 pounds given by the propeller of Willbur Wright. In the view of Mr Moore, a true flier, with the flapping wings of nature, would be far superior to any "power kite" or "power gas-bag" for travel in the air. It would be far more independent of the weather conditions, more self-contained, and more capable of high speed. A demonstration is promised when the full-sized machine can be provided.

A kite station, with facilities for daily ascents of kites or balloons under almost all weather conditions is the scientific novelty of the German Government on Lake Constance. A vessel of 350 horse-power, capable of 19 knots, provides the means for making the ascents. To make a light wind effective, the vessel is run against it; and when a gale is blowing the force on the kite is reduced to safe working by running with the wind. The observations made are telegraphed daily to the chief forecasting offices.

"One Touch of Nature Makes the Whole World Kin."

When a rooster finds a big fat worm he calls all the hens in the farm yard to come and share it. A similar trait of human nature is to be observed when a man discovers something exceptionally good—he wants all his friends and neighbors to share the benefits of his discovery. This is the touch of nature that makes the whole world kin. This explains why people who have been cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy write letters to the manufacturers for publication, that others similarly ailing may also use it and obtain relief. Behind every one of these letters is a warm hearted wish of the writer to be of use to someone else. This remedy is for sale by Jackson Drug Store, Spagnoli, Prop.

An Amateur Conjurer.

During a little pedestrian trip a gentleman came unexpectedly upon a country race course and on one portion of the ground found a thimblebig establishment in full work. Notwithstanding the remonstrance of his companion, the gentleman, who was a bit of a madcap, insisted on watching the game.

"Now, would the gent like to wager a crown he could find the pea?" remarked the expert.

"Yes," was the reply.

The money was on both sides deposited, and the pedestrian, lifting up the thimble, pointed out the required pea and took the stakes.

A second bet, "double or quits," ended, to the surprise of the expert, in the same result.

Then a third wager, "a pound or nothing," steadied the nerves of the loser, and the trick was accomplished with great caution. The gentleman lifted up the thimble and showed the pea, at the same time pocketing the stakes.

"Shelp me," etc., "I didn't put it there!" exclaimed the bewildered artist.

"No, but I always carry my own pea," rejoined the man who had come out right as he went on his way with the spoils of war.—London Tit-Bits.

In Modern Egypt.

Douglas Sladen's book on Egypt contains some curious anecdotes. For instance: "My doctor was called to see an Egyptian who was in a very low state. 'What is the matter?' he asked. 'I think it is only depression. I have been a fool and lost a law case. I would not backsheesh the other man's lawyer, and he backsheeshed mine.' Later on when another Egyptian told my friend that he had won a law case my friend said, 'I suppose you backsheeshed the other man's lawyer?' The Egyptian gave a beautiful smile and said, 'How did you know?'"

And again: "I was at Luxor when they were recruiting for the army. If a young man was found to be physically fit his relations were plunged in grief. Professional mourners were hired to squat outside the police station where the recruiting took place, yelling and weeping. If, on the other hand, he was rejected as undersized or a weakling or tainted with a loathsome disease, his relations and friends flew to him rejoicing and kissed him and hung on his neck."

"Goes" of Whisky.

Forty "goes" of whisky had been consumed by the licensed victualer, and still he was sober—at least so he told the city coroner. "Goes" is a common term in this connection, but it lacks the full appropriateness to the situation of its Scottish equivalent in the story of another big drink told by Dean Ramsay. It was at a party near Arbroath, held to celebrate the reconciliation of two farmers who had long been enemies. When the party at last broke up, at a morning hour, the penurious lady of the house, who had not been able to sleep a wink for anxiety, called over the stairs to the servant:

"How many bottles of whisky have they used, Betty?"

"I dinna ken, mem," was the answer, "but they've drucken six gang o' water."

To the poor girl, who had to "gang" to the well for the qualifying fluid, these were "goes" indeed.—London Chronicle.

Expert Figuring.

A well known actor tells a story of a ne'er-do-well in a little New England town where he has often spent his summers. "I was walking down the main street one day," said he, "when I saw old Silas grinning from ear to ear. I hardly thought that he was that glad to see me. So after speaking to him I said: 'Why the smile that won't come off, Silas? What has happened to make you so happy this morning?' 'I've been a-gittin' married this mornin' was the unexpected reply. 'Married! You?' I exclaimed. 'Why, Silas, what on earth have you done that for? You know you can't even support yourself as it is.' 'Waal,' said Silas, 'you see, it's this way: I ken purty near support myself, an' I kind of figured out that she could finish up the job.'"—Argonaut.

A Sensible Person.

An old Scottish lady during her last illness was assiduously attended by a physician, to whom she invariably gave a guinea when he came to see her. He told the friends with whom she lived that her death would probably be very sudden, and one day when she seemed to have become unconscious the doctor was hastily sent for. On his arrival he found that his patient had ceased to exist, and, taking hold of her right hand, which was closed, but not rigid, he calmly extracted from it the customary fee, remarking as he did so to the attendant friends, "Sensible to the last!"

Eyes Only For Her.

Martha—You don't mean to say you have accepted that Mr. Spooner? Why, he is so awkward, you know! I saw him holding an umbrella over you the other day, and all the water it caught he allowed to drain right on to you. Nancy—What better proof could I have that he is in love with me? He hadn't the least idea that it was raining, the dear man!—Boston Transcript.

Not Surprised.

Mrs. Gramercy—She must have been surprised when her husband gave her such an expensive present. Mrs. Park—Not surprised, my dear, but suspicious.

You may try to do many a day's worry, but you can do only one day's work at a time.

LOCAL EDITORIAL COLUMN.

OUTRAGEOUS PARTISANSHIP.

It is high time for the people of Amador county, regardless of party politics, to sit up and take notice of the drift of the present county administration. It is simply infamous, the way the board of supervisors are acting. It isn't even decent party government. It is shocking from a moral and financial point of view. By reference to the proceedings of the board, it will be seen that the editor of the Ledger lodged a protest with the board last Monday, against a certain item in a printing claim by the Amador Dispatch, which with a bill of the Ledger office was laid over from the previous meeting. Upon looking up our own claim, we discovered, before the meeting of the board, that inadvertently we had charged for an item of $4 in our March bill that had been presented and paid in January. We therefore, voluntarily corrected the claim by striking out the item in question, and reducing the claim in the sum of $4. And the bill as corrected was the only thing before the board on the subject. But seeming, it did not suit the members of the supervisors to have matters amicably done in that way. And instead of allowing the claim as corrected, they disregarded the volunteer reduction of the amount by the claimant, and treated it as though we were making a demand for $20.50 when the face of it showed that the claim was merely for $16.50. So to vent their partisanship or something worse, the minutes are made to read that the bill of the Amador Ledger, for $20.50, was allowed in the sum of $16.50. This is a contemptible specimen of small mindedness that has not been paralleled in the official records for a long time. The managers, together with whoever acts as their guiding genius, could not be fair and present the simple facts, in any matter in which the Ledger is concerned. They must distort and misrepresent, and the motive for such action is too apparent to require comment. But let us turn to the serious matter of the protest against a claim presented by the editor of the Ledger, in which every taxpayer in Amador county is interested. Officials elected to safeguard the finances are expected to watch for every instance of overcharge, and where a case is specifically brought to their notice, as in this instance, the least they could do under their sworn duty, would have been to inquire into the facts, and see whether or not the claim of graft was well founded. Instead of this they ignored the matter entirely. We are informed by one who was present at the time that one of the board members endeavored to ridicule the subject, in the presence of the grafter himself. We don't mince this matter in the least. It is a clear case of graft, and the principle involved is such that no county in the state, however wealthy, could afford to ignore it. But our hide-bound democratic supervisors did not even ask for any explanation or investigation whatever. The bill was cut down, 1.50, on what item we do not know, probably on this item cited, as a sort of blind. That is a sample of financial management under the present delectable reign of as unscrupulous a clique as ever administered the affairs of Amador county. We propose at an early date to present this graft affair in such a light that every taxpayer in Amador county will be able to grasp its import, and understand the condition that exists.
